a McCarthyite Procession - Hundreds Wounded on Both Sides-Michael Davitt Injured.

Dumin, Dec. 16.-The Parnellites yesterday made a succession of flerce ttack upon the McCarthylte proces-tion, stones, brickbuts and blackthornes being used in the most effective manner possible by both political parties. (fewer in number than their opponents) repulsed, but each repulse seemed only to nerve them on to renewed vigor in unother onslaught; so some idea of the exciting nature of the procession may be formed. On both sides there were scores upon scores of wounded, the majority of the sufferers complaining of broken heads. Windows were broken on all sides, doors were broken in, the police were hustled and jostled about like corks upon an angry sea. They were mustered in a solid body near the town hall and were prepared to use other weapons than their batons.
The McCarthylle procession, amid crosus from the Parnellites, was hulted at the O'Conneil monument, and there Mr Dillon made several attempts to address the surging crowds around him, while the battling with the Parnellites was continued in the streets with the utmost vim on both sides. In vain did the distinguished member of parliament rise to the occasion in a jauntingcar and from the foot of the monu-ment. He was grouned down repeatedly by the warring Parnellites, who were not to be cowed by either the con-stabulary or the blackthorns and brickbats of their political adversaries. Finally the fighting became so general and furious that the entire local force of constabulary, reinforced from the outlying districts was marched to the seem and fought its way around the McCarthyites until it formed a cordon separating them from their enemies. Even this enforced cessation of hostilities did not dampen the ardor of the Parnellites. They gathered their forces together and while the McCarthylites' meeting was being held under the protection of the police, they charged upon and captured the town hall, where they began to hold an im-provised menting.

This, however, was more than the loeal authorities, to say nothing of the McCarthyltes, could submit to without n protest; consequently they (the police and McCarthyites) combined their forces and literally stormed the town hall. Then there was a scene which will be long remembered. The fight was one of the hottest description while it lasted. The Parneilites gallantly contested every inch of ground, but they were outnumbered by the police and the McCarthyites combined, and finally had to give way, fighting like demons before superior forces.

The police and McCarthyites then took possession of the hall and the Par-

When reading in the newspapers that a certain person had died leaving so many millions of money, he said that was wrong. He was regular in his habits. He was a free thinker, however, and believed in no hereafter. He never quarreled. He did not like cards. He was always at home at nights. He was retiring, but quite firm. He was very determined; in fact, inflexible. He nover led me to believe that he contemplated violence towards others or himself. His brain also seemed to be very high above the cars. He had fine instincts—no low disposition. He always seemed to admire Russell Sage as a brainy man, and he thought that he had carned his money more ways seemed to damire knased Sage as a brainy man, and he thought that he had carned his money more honestly than other millionaires. Inspecting Dunham Post Dunham Post, No 141, G A. was m spected last night by Assistant Inspector W G Cochran, of Sullivan. The inspec tion showed a most prosperous condition of the Post Probably in the history of the organization this Poet never showed a greater percentage of members with their dues fully paid up. This is largely due to the efficiency of Major Hays as a post quartermsster He kept the "boys" eminded of their arrearages and in this way succeeded in securing payment. The increase of membership as shown by the eports was also gratifying There was a very full attendance of members. After the ceremonies of inspecting the Post, which included a muster, speeches were made by Inspector Cochran and Captain Johnson of Geo H Thomas Post, Chi-oago, who was present The installation of officers for Dunbam Post will occur at the first meeting in January.

The Odell Gas Well is a Daisy-An

The Odell gas well which was discovered while boring for water last week, pans out well er d tested by a steam gange shows a pressure of 180 pounds to the square inch. The well was found on the property of Mrs. Hamilton Spencer and the seriform fluid was struck at a depth of 165 feet. The flow of gas struck in a vein of sand stone, which, according to natural gas experts, portends well for its strong and steady flow. As an instance of the force exerted by the pressure, a plug five unches long and two inches in diameter which was driven into the pipe was projected, with the speed of a built almost time a height of 350 feet or a built almost time a string pipe.
